Poinsettia Care

Blacksburg--The poinsettia is the most popular decorative plant at Christmas time, said Paul L. Smeal, Virginia Tech professor of horticulture.

"Proper care of poinsettias in the home, apartment, or office will keep them looking attractive for a long time," said Smeal, an Extension floriculture and nursery production specialist.

When purchasing poinsettias Smeal said, look for a compact plant with large, colorful bracts and dark green leaves from the bracts to the base of the plant. Bracts are the bright red, white, or pink leaves which surround the poinsettia's true, yellow flowers at the ends of the stems.

"Beward of those plants in which the true, yellow flowers have dropped out," said Smeal. This is a sign of over-maturity, and the plant will not last long in the home.

Plants with fresh yellow flowers in the center will last more than a month. Some of the newer poinsettia varieties will last even longer under proper care, said Smeal.

"After purchasing a poinsettia, be careful to protect the plant from bruising and chilling, if you are transporting it yourself," said Smeal. "Sudden drops in temperature to 50 degrees Fahrenheit or below are likely to cause the green leaves to wilt and the red, pink or white bracts to drop.

Proper temperature, location and watering are essential for keeping a poinsettia looking fresh.

Poinsettias should be in temperatures between 70° and 75° during the day, but not less than 60°F at night. The plants should not be placed in drafty locations, since hot or cold drafts can increase water loss or cause chilling, causing leaves to drop sooner.

Poinsettias should be displayed where they will receive the most sunlight. A south, east or west-facing window is more desirable than a northern exposure, Smeal said.

Smeal said that poinsettias will not stand overwatering, and underwatering will cause wilting which results in leaf drop.

"When the soil appears light in color or feels dry when touched," explained Smeal, "then the poinsettia should be watered thoroughly."

If the pot is wrapped with decorative metal or plastic foil, Smeal said, the pot should have a hole punched in it to allow excess water to drain away. While protecting the furniture, the foil or plastic covering around the pot holds excessive water in the pot.

"Excess water drives air from the soil, causing the poinsettia's roots to die from lack of oxygen," said Smeal. "Check the plant daily to see if it needs watering."

Smeal gives the following hints for displaying poinsettias as cut flowers:

Cut the stem between the nodes at a hollow stem area and be sure to stop the latex from exuding by dipping the cut end in boiling water for 30 seconds or by searing over a flame. Protect the flower and the remainder of the stem from the heat. Periodically recut a few inches of the stem and reseal it for longer flower life.

"Even with this care," cautioned Smel, "cut poinsettias in flower arrangements may wilt or go down rather suddenly."

1752 Calendar Set Christmas Date on Dec. 25

We know that our calendar today is a relatively modern institution. But do we realize that in earliest times, Christmas was celebrated on January 18? It is still so celebrated by the Armenian church. Later on, the date became January 6 —and it was only in 1752, with the final change to the Gregorian calendar, that the rearrangement of dates placed Christmas Day on December 25.

Some church people in England were very indignant when this change took place — feeling that somehow they had been robbed of 11 days and the corresponding wages. Some of them tried to find out if the new date were correct by noting whether or not the tree called the Glastonbury Thorn (supposedly planted by Joseph of Arimathea) would flower on the new date or the old. Sometimes the tree bloomed on one day and sometimes on the other, however, depending on the weather — so that supporters of both dates managed to keep up the quarrel for some time.

BAN ON MISTLETOE

Mistletoe is almost never one of the greens used in church decorations, because it has always been considered pagan, as the badge of the Druid.

Our wish for the happiest holiday to our good friends.
